

10 Ways to Green Your Home

- Have your home equipped with a recycle center. Incorporate it into your kitchen, laundry, or garage.
- Use recycled materials in any renovations to your home. Many companies have incorporated “recycled products” into their product lines.
- Maximize storage. Be as efficient with the use of your space.
- Incorporate Energy Star appliances that use minimal amounts of water and/or electricity.
- Change out your incandescent bulbs for compact fluorescent bulbs.
- Start a compost.
- Unplug any electrical device you aren't using.
- Support local businesses. If it has to come from China you are using a lot more energy than if it comes from right down the road!
- Invest in houseplants, they increase your indoor air quality.
- Purchase Green Power from your utility company.

Chattanooga offers a free recycling program! . Just bag your recyclables and place them on the curb on your designated Wednesday. You don't even have to separate your recyclables!

WOOD IS GOOD!

According to GreenPeace founder Patrick Moore trees are among the most natural renewable resources on our planet. This is demonstrated by the net gain in U.S. hardwood volume even after forestry and mortality.

Wood is a good option for custom cabinetry!

On the contrary, utilizing synthetic materials such as metals, plastics, and others which require significant amounts of mining, energy, petroleum, and other chemicals, in processes which create many sources of pollutants, has a negative impact on our environment.

If you are thinking about going green we can help:

We have products that will assist you in your remodel or new kitchen project and ease your mind about environmental impact as well.

At your request we can obtain paperwork to have your lumber certified by the FSC (Forest Stewardship Council).

We can also order formaldehyde-free wood products such as plywood.

We can specify water-based adhesives, sealers, and lacquers to be used on your custom order.

We also work with a wide variety of counter-top specialists and have options that range from natural stones such as granite to recycled solid surfaces.
